

THE 12 BEST ORGANIC LIPSTICKS

MARCH 28, 2017

Last month I did a post on the best organic lip balms which is all fine and good, but do you give the color you put on your lips much thought? You should. Considering women ingest anywhere between roughly 4-7 pounds of the gunk they put on their lips in their lifetime, it's thought provoking. Most of the lipsticks (and makeup) we wear contain loads of ingredients we can't pronounce let alone sound healthy. From parabens, petro-chemicals, phthalates, and sulfates to synthetic fragrances and dyes there is some pretty nasty stuff in not only what we apply to our face but what we (ew) consume.

I have my own recent health reasons for seeking out organic and/began makeup, but it really can't be bad for anyone to chose healthier alternatives, Ten years ago it was hard to find organic lipsticks that didn't either suck or cost a king's ransom. Fortunately in more recent years cosmetic manufacturers (both luxury and mass market) have heard our cries for more safe and natural products.

So of course I had to do some research and I probably tried at least 25 organic and vegan lipsticks. I was surprised at how many I liked and for different reasons. So I could not even narrow it down to 10. Here are my top 12 favorite organic lipsticks.

5. Votre Vu Champs-éLIPsée Lip Crayon, $24

This is another lip crayon from a line I have come to love. This hydrating formula's infusion of luscious plant and pure mineral waxes feels absolutely luxurious, and a convenient chubby twist-up stick makes application sweet and simple. Tested and approved by celebrity makeup artists, these non-stop flattering hues dutifully add fullness and depth with every swipe – and power to your pout. Champs-éLIPsée does not contain any parabens, GMOs, triclosan, talc, gluten, synthetic fragrances, sulfates or phthalates. Votre Vu does not test any products on animals.
