

My Beauty Galleria

Kissable Lips for Valentine's Day

FEB
10

JELENA

There is nothing nice about dry, cracked, chapped lips... they look and feel awful and especially if you want to wear lip color or simply want nice healthy looking lips (that are kissable too!). I have been suffering from extremely dry lips since I can remember and I have tried everything and anything out there – from super cheap drugstore lip balms to some very expensive ones here is my round up of the ones that actually worked and helped. Orlane might be my favorite so far and it is the most expensive one (45$), MAC I have repurchased the most, Votre vu has the most innovative idea of having lip balm and hand cream in one , LUSH ones really work and are affordable but they have annoying packaging and it is hard to get the product out, Givenchy has absolutely stunning packaging and gives just a hint of color.. there are still some products out there that I have not tried – Sisley, By terry rose baume, Chanel lip balm for the simple reason of not wanting to spend 50+ dollars for a lip balm.

Votre Vu Duette (36$ at votrevu.com) – If one is good, two is better...A Duette sung in perfect harmony. Beautifully moisturized hands always rate in the Top 10 on the charts and Lovely Lips sing sweetly in every language. A clever little pair to keep everywhere – in fact you may want more than one!

This nourishing lip balm made from coconut oil, shea butter and beeswax gently protects, nourishes and softens lips in every condition. A deliciously light and natural coconut flavor delivers a guiltless treat to your mouth with every application. Intensively nourishing, your lips will become supple and shiny again. This formula is worth its weight in gold! Topped with UV filters to add extra protection to your luxe lips, you can indulge in dessert as often as you wish.

<http://cheekmeout.com/kissable-lips-valentines-day/>